GOV•UK

Disability Living Allowance (DLA) for adults

Contents

— Overview

— If you already get DLA (/dla-disability-living-allowance-benefit/your-DLA-claim)

— DLA rates (/dla-disability-living-allowance-benefit/DLA-rates)

Overview

Disability Living Allowance (DLA) is being replaced by other benefits. If you already get DLA, your claim might end.

If you live in England or Wales, you'll get a letter telling you when this will happen and how you can apply for Personal Independence Payment (PIP).

> This guide is also available in Welsh (Cymraeg) (/lwfans-byw-ir-anabl).

If you're under 16

You can only apply for DLA if you're under 16 (/disability-living-allowance-children) and you live in England or Wales.

If you're over 16

You cannot apply for DLA. You can apply for:

- Personal Independence Payment (PIP) (/pip) if you live in England or Wales and have not reached State Pension age (https://www.gov.uk/state-pension-age)

- Attendance Allowance (/attendance-allowance) if you're State Pension age (https://www.gov.uk/state-pension-age) or older and do not get DLA

If you live in Scotland

All existing claims for DLA have been moved to Scottish Adult Disability Living Allowance (https://www.mygov.scot/browse/benefits/disability-benefits/scottish-adult-disability-living-allowance).

Find out about disability benefits in Scotland (https://www.mygov.scot/browse/benefits/disability-benefits).

→ Next
If you already get DLA (/dla-disability-living-allowance-benefit/your-DLA-claim)

View a printable version of the whole guide (/dla-disability-living-allowance-benefit/print)

OGL

All content is available under the Open Government Licence v3.0, except where otherwise stated

© Crown copyright